COWBOYS

Cowboys do not have to have half of the faction armed with a pistol as their sole ranged weapon. If mounted Characters are permitted in the Scene, then all mounted Characters may be equipped with a lasso. "See How the Cat Jumps" and "Tough as Old Boots" may not be used in the same turn; only one is permitted to be played in a single turn. "Life in the Saddle" applies at all times.

See How the Cat Jumps

Following the playing and revealing of all Initiative cards, the player may play a second, face down Initiative card to a character of their choice. The owning player may look at the card without revealing it to their opponent. It may be used to replace the original placed Initiative card.

Tough as Old Boots

Once per turn, if a character is facing a Nerve test that will put them out of action, the Cowboy player may declare they are "tough as old boots". The test is passed on an unmodified roll of 3 or greater.

Life in the Saddle

All members of a Cowboy faction may mount/dismount without expending a Move action. Cowboys may also Stampede large animal herds more easily than other factions (see Stampede, Corebook page 17).

J ♦

"You boys better move away."

Play on an opposing character that has already been activated this turn as long as it has no Under Fire markers. Move the opposing character 10cm as if it were your own. This move may not be made to contact another character, fall off a roof or other piece of terrain, or move off the gaming area.

You can see where he is and where he's heading. Well that's no good to you. You give a gentle whistle and knock the bucket next to you onto the floor. That should get his attention and get him where you need him to be.

You can hear them moving on the other side of the wall. Slowly you track them, taking careful aim, well as careful as you can be with a shotgun! Now that's the spot, time to introduce them to Mr. Buckshot! Cover can be a pain, but not having line of sight is even worse.

Q ♦

"If they move, kill em!"

Play on one of your own characters when you declare its actions for the turn. One wall or obstacle that would block line of sight to an enemy character may be totally ignored as long as the target is within 20cm.

K ♦

True Grit

Play on one of your own characters when it is activated; a Recover action clears all Under Fire markers on the character.

♦ K

The air is full of lead and menace. This isn't the first time you've found yourself with your back against the wall facing terrible odds, time to suck it up and get back in the fight.

Johnny has always been lucky, no matter what comes his way he seems to be able to stay a step ahead. Look at those fools, they think they have him, how wrong they are.

The gunfight is in the head, not the hands.

Play on one of your own as yet unactivated characters when an opponent is activated & declares that it is taking at least one Shoot action against your character. Your character may take three actions immediately; at least one must be a Move action. This counts as activating for the turn.
